Project Detail

Background

Barrett Steel is the largest independent steel stockholder in the UK. Since its inception in 1867, it has grown both organically and by acquisition and now comprises 47 companies operating from 25 locations across the UK and is divided into four divisions: General Steels; Engineering Steels; Tubes; and International with 900 employees.

The Drive for Change

Barrett Steel was using personnel and payroll software from one supplier and a time and attendance system from another. The decision to replace these with a single integrated solution was driven by the need to overcome the reporting and data synchronisation issues associated with managing systems that did not talk to each other.

Choosing Carval

The project team selected Unistaff HR software, Uniwage Payroll software and Unitend Time and Attendance software from Carval's totally integrated HR Unity range. HR Unity is a flexible multi-company solution featuring unique levels of integration. This will ensure real-time data accuracy and offer Barrett Steel unrivalled cross-function reporting opportunity across HR, Payroll and Time and Attendance management.
